Any single interest rate or hybrid security	Limits will be applied against the underlying issuer. ⁱⁱⁱ
Self-funding instalment warrants^{iv}	Limits will apply against the underlying security and its value, not the value of the instalment warrant. ^v
Partly paid securities (issued in instalments)	Limits will apply as per the General limits above and against the full issue price, rather than the initial instalment. ^{vi}
Initial public offerings

i 'Fully replicated' means being composed of physical holdings of the component securities, not 'synthetically structured' (where, for example, the index is tracked through derivatives). All other listed investment companies or exchanged traded funds limits will apply as per the General limits outlined above.

ii 'Major Australian index' means an index comprised at least the 20 largest stocks by market capitalisation Australia (eg S&P/ASX 20, S&P/ASX 50, S&P/ASX 100 etc). It does not include sector specific indices. All other listed investment companies or exchange traded funds limits will apply as per the General limits outlined above.

iii For example, if a company issued a corporate bond, the trustee limit will be applied against the sum of the holding in the company.

iv Please note, members may be required to maintain sufficient funds in their Cash Account to cover all future instalments. Other types of instalment, endowment or trading warrants or exchange traded options are not currently available.

v For example, if there is a purchase of 1,000 shares in a self-funding instalment warrant, the limit will be applied as if the order was for the 1,000 shares in the underlying issuer.

vi For example, a partly paid security with an initial instalment of $1 per security and a full issue price of $2 per security, will have trustee limits applied against the $2 per security value.
